

charge of the detective work for the Commonwealth, arrived at the jail shortly before 1 o'clock he was locked in the office for some time, and was told that he could consult the witnesses only in the hearing of the key, and that hereafter he must make a definite appointment in advance, or admission would be denied.

Brought Matters to Crisis.
This brought matters to a crisis. The detectives had had reason to believe that there had been more of less communication between Henry Beattie and Beulah Binford since the first night in jail. It was stated that when Mrs. Elliott called at the jail on Saturday she brought with her a large bag, which she was four or five times around the jail, and the woman in view, during their conversation, but admitted that he did not hear it, that he could not tell what they had talked about. The attorneys for the Commonwealth assert that there is no doubt but that the visit of Mrs. Elliott, who has been refused to see, and the Commonwealth or tell what was in her knowledge, was for an improper purpose, and in order to secure her testimony on oath a subpoena was issued for her yesterday. All of those working on the case express the greatest indignation at such evident tampering with a witness should have been permitted on the flimsy pretext that Mrs. Elliott was a relative. Miss Binford's bona fide sister, Mrs. Powers, and her mother, had called at the jail during the morning, and both had been frequently making the more impracticable that Mrs. Elliott could have been taken for the sister. Mrs. Elliott is believed to be a material witness, in position to corroborate certain of Beulah Binford's statements.

Beulah Greatly Alarmed.
When Officers Jarrell, Wren and Wiltshire appeared at the Henrico jail early yesterday afternoon bearing the order of Magistrate Jacob, who had issued the original commitment papers for the transfer of the witness prisoners to the City Jail, Beulah Binford was much alarmed, fearing that she would be taken to Chesterfield jail, where she would have a lonesome time. She was reassured when told that comfortable quarters with every convenience, had been arranged at the City Jail.

Even before Mr. Scherer was denied access to the prisoners during the morning, Commonwealth's Attorney Gregory had taken steps for the preparation of new quarters. He was convinced after the episode of Saturday that it would be necessary to transfer Beulah Binford and Paul Beattie from the Henrico jail. Henry Beattie, the alleged murderer, will remain where he is. When questioned on the subject by the attorney, Mr. Jarrell insisted that he had done the full duty by being present—that is to say, in sight—when visitors were admitted, but that it was no part of his duty to listen to conversations, or to know whether the case was discussed.

After Jarrell Garnett had refused to honor the papers issued by Magistrate Jacob, it was proposed to send Officer Jarrell to Nottoway Courthouse for the necessary papers from Judge Watson, so that the prisoners might not spend another night in the Henrico jail, but after talking with the judge on the telephone it was agreed to wait for the papers to be issued in regular order, and Officer Jarrell was confident that the authority for the transfer would be in the hands of Commonwealth's Attorney Gregory in the first mail this morning, and that the change would be made at once.

Officers Wren, Wiltshire, Jarrell, Scherer and Attorney Wendenburg were in conference yesterday afternoon, after which it was stated that several additional witnesses had been examined whose statements threw additional light on the case, but their names and the nature of the evidence were not divulged.

No Detectives for Defense.
Attorney H. M. Smith, Jr., for the defense, broke his accustomed line of silence yesterday long enough to deny that he had any detectives for the defense.

and ridicule the idea that the defense had arranged for private detectives to work up evidence to upset the case of the Commonwealth. He admitted that private detective agencies had made all manner of offers to supply men for such service, but said that they were not needed—that the defense would not conduct its case in that way.

PERKINS WANTED FOR STEEL QUIZ

He Will Be Asked to Run Gamut of Trust's Affairs.

New York, July 31.—George W. Perkins, director of the United States Steel Corporation and chairman of the finance committee of the International Harvester Company, was subpoenaed to-day to appear before the congressional committee of inquiry into the affairs of the United States Steel Corporation. He was excused from appearing, however, until the committee has completed its inquiry into the intricacies of the absorption of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company by the steel corporation.

An inquiry will be made by experts into the valuation of ore properties of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company, and three men have been subpoenaed who made estimates to members of the Tennessee syndicate before they took over the property. They are C. P. Perline, W. M. Given and Walter Moore.
Mr. Perkins probably will not be called until next week. He will be followed by Charles M. Schwab, president of the Bethlehem Steel Company, and former president of the United States Steel Corporation. Both will be asked concerning their knowledge of the steel plate association of the United States, which was formed just before the organization of the United States Steel Corporation. Mr. Schwab was president of the Carnegie Steel Company, one of the concerns party to the steel plate association, and he will be asked about the printed agreement which later was incorporated in the furnaces of the Loken Iron and Steel Company, of Coatesville, Pa.

Both Mr. Perkins and Mr. Schwab will be interrogated about the organization of the United States Steel Corporation and its relation to independent steel manufacturing concerns. They also will be questioned as to the so-called Gary dinners, when independent manufacturers collaborated with the corporation leaders in discussing the best interests of the business in general, and the steel gamut of independent manufacturers, which are subject to inquiry by the committee.
Mr. Perkins will be examined particularly about the International Harvester Company's relations with the steel corporation, and an agreement time to have been made when the corporation was to purchase materials from the steel corporation.

CLEVELAND'S BIRTHPLACE

Controversy at Caldwell, N. J., Over the question of purchase.
Newark, N. J., July 31.—The question of now Grover Cleveland regarded Caldwell, N. J., his birthplace, promises to become an issue there, some of Mr. Cleveland's admirers are trying to persuade the town to purchase the house in which he was born as a national Cleveland museum, the scheme will cost the citizens $15,000, and a strong opposition has developed. The opposition declares that Mr. Cleveland in his life detested the town, resulting in the displacement of his father as pastor of the Caldwell Presbyterian Church. It is added that he resolved never to return to the town when he left it, seated with his two legs dangling out in the rear of the wagon which conveyed the Cleveland household effects from Caldwell.

JEWELERS FROM TWENTY STATES

Bring Dazzling Display of Diamonds and Gold for Sixth Annual Convention.

HOLD FIRST SESSION TO-DAY

Retail Association and Manufacturers Prepared for Hard Work and Amusement.

Twenty States are represented among the early arrivals for the sixth annual convention of the National Retail Jewelers' Association, which convenes at the Jefferson Hotel at 10 o'clock this morning. All the way from the Atlantic to the Pacific they come—as prosperous looking and as optimistic a crowd of delegates as ever migrated to a Southern city for an annual pow-wow. There are men from the State of Oklahoma who tell of its magic cities sprung up over night, men from Texas, who are big and prosperous despite the ravages of the boll weevil, and men from William Allen White's own Emporia, Kansas, who bring bizarre tales of the manner in which Walt Mason and the editor of the Emporia Gazette have jumped into lasting fame.
All of them are enthusiastic about Richmond, and not a few want this city to be honored for next year's convention. One Westerner said that he had an idea before he left home that they require a man's pedigree in Virginia before they shake hands with him, but that the moment he enters the local reception committee and was taken to a club and treated to an orthodox mint julep all fears on that score were dispelled.
Their First Trip South.
For most of the delegates in attendance this is the first trip to the South. An unusually large number of these have come from the Middle Western and Pacific States, a region of the country where the South is apparently but dimly known. The trip was a revelation to most of them, and the progressive aspect of Richmond and neighboring cities is the one big thing that struck them.

Yesterday afternoon and evening was taken up in arranging exhibits and getting acquainted. Between the hours of 8 and 10 an informal reception was held in the lobby of the Jefferson by the national officers complimentary to the delegates and visitors.

In the afternoon the national officers of the organization were taken over the city in automobiles by the reception committee of the Twenty-four Karat Club. Among the prominent delegates included in the official tour were Colonel John L. Shepherd, of New York, who was confined in Libby Prison and Belle Isle during the War between the States. The old site of Libby Prison was pointed out to him, and he took a keen interest in glancing once more upon the scene of his stormy youth. At a recent meeting of 600 G. A. R. veterans at the Waldorf-Astoria, in New York, Colonel Shepherd delivered an address on Robert E. Lee. The city of Richmond, with its numerous memorials of General Lee's life and work, possessed deep interest for the ex-Union soldier. Trips were also made to Seven Pines and other points.

Ready for Big Display.
More than a score of wholesale and manufacturing jewelers have arrived on the scene, and were busily engaged yesterday in arranging their displays. Every branch of the trade is represented, from a diamond cutting plant in actual operation to the exhibits of jewelry boxes and street clocks. The big New England watch companies have large displays and supply information. The wealth represented in the various exhibits mounts into the hundreds of thousands. Such open display of valuables attract the usual number of light-fingered folk, and extraordinary precautions are being taken to insure its safety. A force of detectives has been detailed to the exhibit section, and the figure of Captain T. J. McMahon, chief of the local detective force, was especially in evidence last night. The display is far from complete. A large number of exhibitors will arrive on the scene to-day. Everything will be complete by to-night, when the magnificent exhibit will be thrown open to the public.
Many Have Exhibits.
The following firms have already installed their exhibits: J. R. Wood & Sons, New York, diamond cutting and polishing plant in full operation; South Bend Watch Company, South Bend, Ind., watches; Western Clock Company, South Bend, Ind., clocks; A. J. Sheff & Co., Pittsburg, rings; Rogers, Lunt & Bowen, Mansfield, Mass., sterling silverware; Waltham Watch Company, Waltham, Mass., watches; Stillman Safety Lamp Company, New York, safety-lamps; F. & M.
